From The President

Greetings again for our third and last production of the 1996-97 Red Mask Season. As we close out this sixtieth year, we look around and think to ourselves: "What's in store for the next sixty years?"

There is still much to do to the old girl in the way of repairs and renovations. To all of you who donated so generously to the brick program, a heart-felt "Thank you." For those of you who just forgot or didn't think about it at all, there is still time to get your name on our "wall of fame."

This evening's performance is one I am sure you are going to enjoy, at least, I hope you do. I have a vested interest. Laughter is good for the soul and by the time you leave tonight, you will have had your soulful (is that even a word?... Well, you get the drift.).

We always like to close out our theatrical year with a bang and Jeremy Troy is the biggest explosion (of laughs) you've had this season. (We apologize in advance for any disparaging remarks that are made about lawyers during the show. Some of our best friends are lawyers.) We're thrilled you can be here for this performance of Here Lies Jeremy Troy.

From The Director

Well, spring has finally arrived in its own peculiar way and now it is time to take a deep breath and relax. Sunny days are ahead and funny nights are here, too! The production you are about to see will: a) amuse; b) tickle you silly; or c) make you very upset because you wished you were in it. No, really, when I set out to do this show, I thought to myself, "Hey, it's a comedy, how hard can it be?" Well let me tell you that comedy is one of the hardest things to direct. Is it funny or is it not funny? What will the audience laugh at and get and what won't they understand? I hope, through collaboration with some of the best actors I have had the privilege to work with, that we succeed in tickling your funny bone and get you to split your seams in uproarious gales of laughter. Whatever you do, don't just sit there and unwrap your candy very slowly: it annoys the actors and they may come after you. Plus, if you 'laugh loud, laugh lots,' nobody will hear the candy wrapper.

The Red Mask Players

Production Team

EDWARD S. SANT (Director) - This is Ed's third stint as a director for Red Mask, having also directed Company of Wayward Saints and Neil Simon's Lost in Yonkers. Ed's main love is directing and hopes to pursue this vocation more in the future. He also can be seen on stage, most recently in Harvey as Elwood P. Dowd, and in various other roles in shows like How the Other Half Loves, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Rumors, Two by Two, and Arsenic and Old Lace. When not running Red Mask Board meetings as President of the organization, he is the owner of a small business.

WILLIAM SATTERFIELD (Producer) - Though technically not a 'breeder', William enjoys producing. He has been seen on stage, most recently in his delightful portrayal of Reverend Mervin Oglethorpe in Danville Light Opera's Smoke on the Mountain. At Red Mask, he has performed various tasks on and off stage including directing Trip to Bountiful and last year's comedic gem (you knew I would get this in somewhere, Lisa) How the Other Half Loves. When away from the theater, William has made a career at Indiana State University as a student and is starting his own production company Twelve Fluid Ounces.

STEPHANIE FITZ (Stage Manager) - Although you have never seen her on stage, Stephanie lives at Red Mask doing everything from props to light/sound to house duties. Having excelled at these tasks, she has now progressed into being the WOMAN IN CHARGE. Away from the theater, Steph is an administrative assistant at MEG Steelworks and is instrumental in the founding of Twelve Fluid Ounces. She would like to thank Charles Pundt for his love and support and for introducing her to the wonderful world of Red Mask.

On Stage

EDWARD DEVORE (Jeremy Troy) - Ed returns...well, actually he stays, on stage after appearing in Wait Until Dark as Mike Talman. You may notice a change in his appearance but he insists it is less drastic than the change in styles of the two shows. "The constantly changing path we follow from start to finish keeps us all on our toes and has made all the hours of rehearsal fun." An employee of Danville Metal Stamping and father of two, Ed thanks the cast and crew for a great time and thanks to the audience for their support.

WARREN FRANK (Sven Ivorsen) - After reading these quotes circulated backstage: "A lawyer with his briefcase can steal more than a hundred men with guns," or "Going to trial with a lawyer who considers your whole lifestyle a 'crime in progress' is not a happy prospect," and finally, "Lawyers are like rhinoceroses: thick skinned, short-sighted, and always ready to charge," Warren isn't sure he even wants to play a lawyer on stage. You won't remember anything he has done in the past because he doesn't even remember where he is or what he is supposed to be doing on stage. He thinks he's principal at Danville Lutheran School, his wife's name is Ann and their dog is P.J. If anyone in the audience can confirm any of this information, please get in touch with him.

KARL GNADT (Charlie Bickle) - Karl is no stranger to theater having performed with Sunshine II Productions and previous Red Mask shows including this season's opener Harvey, Neil Simon's Rumors, and his Katy award winning performance as Mortimer Brewster in Arsenic and Old Lace. He would like to thank his family and friends, especially his lovely and loving wife Heidi, for their support.

SUE HARDEN (Kathryn Troy) - Sue was last seen in the 1995 Summer One-Act Festival's original production Wake Me, No Wake (what didn't you feel punch you in the chest, Ed?) and as Claire in Rumors. She has been busy doing props on other shows and stage managed How the Other Half Loves for her "oh, Captain my Captain" producer, Bill Satterfield. She is glad to be back on stage again. When not doing theater work, she keeps busy taking minutes for the Red Mask Board of Directors and is a legal secretary for Dukes, Martin, Ryan, Meyer, & Krapf, Ltd. Sue would like to thank her husband, B.J. Harvey, and friends for their love and support.

JAMIE MATTIS (Tina Winslow) - Jamie was involved in the Red Mask Children's production of The Hobbit in 1989, however, this is her first production as an adult. She has treasured the experience and hopes to repeat it again soon. Jamie is a 1993 Oakwood High School graduate and is currently attending Danville Area Community College. After completing D.A.C.C., she will transfer to a university majoring in communications, finally completing her neverending quest. She would like to thank her family and friends for their continuing support, but especially to her brother Chip who has always been her biggest fan.
