Red Mask Players have presented the following plays since the founding of the organization in 1937:

"Night of January 16th"
"The Bishop Misbehaves"
"Swamp Spirit"
"Where the Cross is Made"
"Women Folks"

"To the Ladies"
"The Mad Hopes"
"Fresh Fields"
"Hands Across the Sea"
"Sir Gallahad"—

by Mrs. Katherine Robison

In addition to the above plays presented to the public there have been numerous skits and play readings for the members of the Club. These have been given at the regular monthly meetings.

Many people have the misconception that unless they have dramatic ability there is no place for them in an organization such as Red Mask Players. In reality there is a place for everyone. Designing of sets and costumes, lighting, make-up, carpenter, painting, and publicity are just a few of the jobs that go with producing a play. Also many people derive their greatest enjoyment from just attending the plays. That, too, is important to such an organization.

Red Mask Players, during the 1941 season, are desirous of allowing members and members only to fill all of the places mentioned. In other words plays will be presented for members only. The history of amateur theatrical groups elsewhere indicates that such a policy is best.

Therefore, 200 memberships are offered at $2.00 each from May 21 to May 31. Anyone interested in amateur dramatics may become a member. Membership blanks are obtainable at Y. W. C. A., Plaster Drug Co., Neumode Hosiery Store or King & Wire Drug Co.
